"HAPPY HUNTING"

EDITOR: ALAN STRICKLER

FROM THE DESK OF THE EDITOR

By the time you are reading this- harvest will be under way here in the mid-west. In fact, I am sure as of this writing- someone is out in the fields now. Here in Des Moines and central Iowa, we continue to be extremely dry- the rains seem to divide and go north or south. I am sure, 5 minutes before it is too late, it will rain again.

I have not found any F & F cars lately but do occasionally check out eBay "just in case." I could sure use some material on F & F's if any of you have any news, please send it along. I do hope the membership enjoys to some degree the Tonka, Smith-Miller, Structo etc truck info I pass along. Remember ads are ~FREE~ and do get results--

So, speaking of trucks- I am now 71 years old and worked as long as I can recall, first in the hay fields of southern Iowa from a very young age. I have long struggled with the word or thought of "retirement"- however, I have drawn a line in the sand and sometime between mid-November and Jan. 1- I will test the water. The Company I had worked for sold out last Sept. 1 and as my ole Buddy Skip would have said "they changed things." It will be an adjustment I am sure!

Hope each of you are staying Covid free and on my Look-a-vision, I can see each of you shaking your heads over the state our Country is currently in, I can only say "Please join with me and pray for our Country".

Till next time~

Alan

YOURS FREE . . .
as a reader of
Ford's "Buyer's Digest"

Imagine having an accurately scaled model of Ford's famous Thunderbird . . . the stunning new Sunliner convertible . . . or the saucy New-size Ford, the Falcon. Or perhaps you'd prefer the miniature Galaxie, the Country Sedan or the stylish new Starliner? Any one you want is yours as a gift!

These handsome 1/4 scale models are approximately 8 1/2" long (except the Falcon, which is 7 1/4"). They actually run, powered by friction drive that sends them scooting across the floor with a gentle push. So check your favorite on the attached Certificate and take this to your Ford Dealer. He will see that your miniature 60 Ford is mailed to you with our compliments.

FROM THE REAR VIEW MIRROR:

July 17, 2021- this CUSTOM 1 of 1 Tonka 1957 gasoline truck sold on eBay for a whopping $1400.00! The seller was from London, Ky. Tonka did make a gasoline truck like this but NOT in a tandem version. It was stated the metal had been bead blasted, primed and painted with acrylic enamel automotive paint. It came with a new bumper, grill, hubcaps, 6 new tires and 4 used inside rear tires. It was 17" in overall length. Someone got a beautiful rig!

A former member and I were talking recently- about how our world and hobby has changed, including value- pictured above is a 1954 Ford brown 4 door that appeared on eBay some 20 years ago, March 4, 2001. At that time, eBay had not been around long, and brown 54 Fords were hard to find, a couple "Some ones" I am assuming need this car to complete their collection—NOTE THE SELLING PRICE! $1,126.25. No, that is not a misprint! Were you the seller??? OR the buyer???

RESERVE YOURS TODAY!

Peter Hollinshead recently sent me this info on the newest Chevy line of model cars being produced by Rapido Trains of suburban Toronto. As you see, these include the Caprice and Impala sedans in wagons, police vehicles, etc. in a new line of HO-scale 1980 models. They are available in multiple colors and the wagons have simulated wood trim. Peter goes on to say "these are made in the spirit of the F & F products- and several of you may want to add this line to your collection! The detail is amazing!" Thanks Peter for the info! Their web site is: www.rapidotrains.com.

#92, Paul McLaughlin sent a welcome note recently- and these pictures—“after seeing the 1961 Econoline van in the last Registry, I thought the members might be interested in seeing this other 1961 Econoline promotional item that tied in with Jack Nicklaus the “Golden Bear” with the Ford Econoline.” “My Dad who was a Ford salesman for over thirty years gave it to me before he passed away. ”Also—Att: PAT FORD!!!! If you have any interest in this 1958 Ford wagon bank—give Paul a call at 505-296-2554!

Guys! This is cool! Please send any anything like this to share with others—they all will enjoy seeing it!
